The Alabama Online Accommodations Training

Presented by the National Center on Educational Outcomes
Michael Moore, Rebekah Rieke, Sheryl Lazarus, and Jennifer Hodgson

Accommodations Decision-Making Process

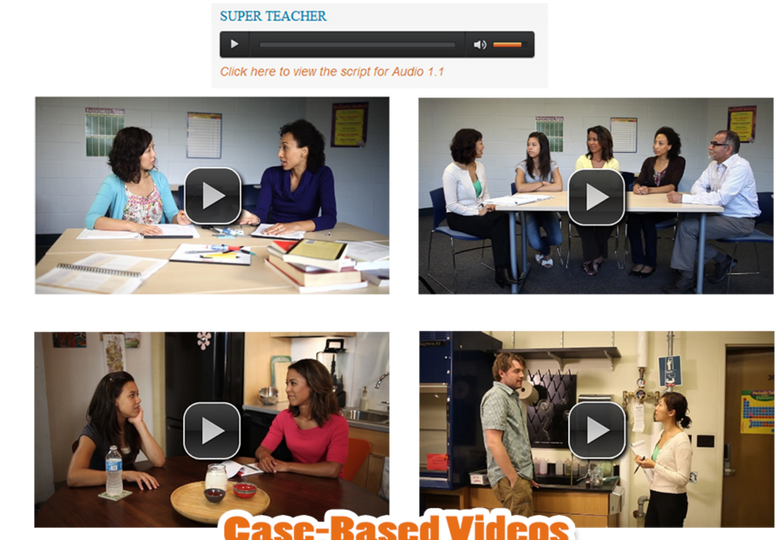

Training Modules

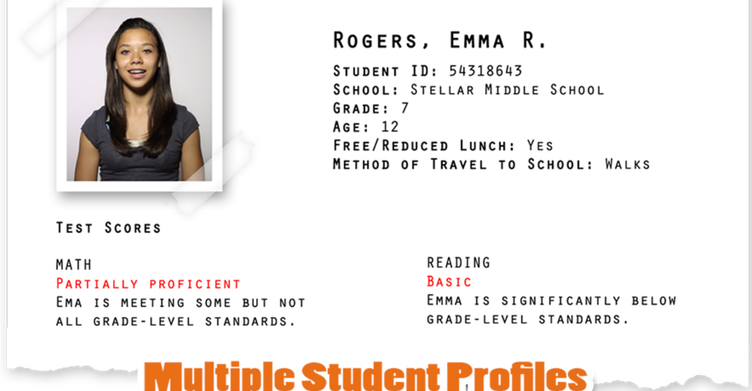

The National Center on Educational Outcomes (NCEO), in collaboration with the Alabama Department of Education, developed online training about accommodations decision-making.

The training comprises interactive, multi-media professional development modules on accommodations decision-making, with the goal of improving the instruction and assessment of students with disabilities. Throughout the training, educators are coached about best practices in how to select, administer, and evaluate the use of accommodations. To help increase participant engagement and learning, the training presents a featured student along with other student cases in the form of video stories. A key feature of the training is an accommodations decision-making tool which walks the participant through the steps to take when making decisions about accommodations.

To access the training visit: http://lt.umn.edu/nceo/alabama/userjoin.php

Case-Based Videos

Multiple Student Profiles

The General Supervision Enhancement Grant (GSEG) Project on Behalf of the Alabama State Department of Education is supported by a GSEG (# H373X090001) from the Research to Practice Division, Office of Special Education Programs US Department of Education. The National Center on Educational Outcomes is supported by a Cooperative Agreement (#H326G110002) with the same agency. Opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect those of the US Department of Education.